Mrs. Walter J. Payne

UDC recognizes 'real daughter'

At age 93, Mrs. Walter J. Payne of Pamplin, the former Irma Coleman, still remembers some experiences related to her by her father, Benjamin F. Coleman, who served in Company H, 18th Virginia Regiment of Infantry, Confederate States of America.

Benjamin F. Coleman and his father, Joel Watkins Coleman, both served in the same Company and Regiment.

Mrs. Payne continues to cherish the leather canteen carried by her father during his years of devoted service and now in her possession. Her son has a picture of his grandfather along with other living veterans, taken at a reunion in 1913.

Mrs. Payne will be 94 in March of this year. She is the mother of four daughters, Mrs. Hattie Collins of Appomattox, Mrs. Margaret Daniels and Mrs. Doris Thlimlin of California, and Mrs. Nell VanHoose of Florida. Her only son, Walter J. Payne, Jr., resides with her in Pamplin.

The Appomattox Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy has been asked to locate all "real daughters" who reside in the county and would appreciate any information relative to others.

The next regular meeting of the Chapter will be held in the home of the president, Mrs. Otho W. Martin, Jr., on Thursday, Feb. 21, at 12 noon with a covered dish luncheon. A business session will follow the luncheon.

Reception honors Dan, Edna Carson

A reception was held Sunday night, Feb. 3, at Freedom Baptist Church in honor of Dan and Edna Carson.

Dan and Edna left on Feb. 5 for a month to serve with the Leeward Islands Baptist Mission, Antiqua, West Indies. They are going as lay volunteers through the Foreign Mission Board.

While there, the Carsons will be working with Gary and Evelyn Hartheock who are agriculture missionaries.

A sewing machine was donated and a love offering was given them by Freedom Baptist Church to help them carry out their work while there. The congregation is very proud to be a part of this mission opportunity and feel blessed by God that he has led Dan and Edna into the congregation that together the work of the Lord can be carried out as He has commanded us to do.

A sure-fire guide to egg-grading expertise

Good news for homemakers

By: SHIRLEY W. WALTON

Most of the eggs reaching the consumer today are graded and marked according to US Standards and Grades. Grading of eggs involves the process of sorting according to quality, size, weight and other factors that determine the relative value of the product.

Standards for the quality of individual shell eggs have been developed by the United States Department of Agriculture. Interior quality factors such as condition of the egg, white and yolk, and the size and condition of the air cell determine how they are graded. Exterior quality factors such as cleanliness and soundness of the shell are also considered.

Eggs are classified according to weight. Although eggs are not sold according to the exact weight, they are grouped into narrow weight ranges or weight classes, with the minimum weight per unit fixed. For example, a dozen large eggs must weigh a minimum of 24 ounces.

The US Standards and Grades are permissive, meaning that they may or may not be used by the individual producers or handlers. Many of the state departments of agriculture adopt the United States Standards and Grades as a part of their programs for regulating the marketing of eggs within their states. Even though grade specifications in some states vary from those for US Grade, the standards of quality are rather uniformly used throughout the country.

A USDA Grade A Quality egg must be clean, unbroken and practically normal in shape. The air cell which is normally located at the large end of the egg and increases in size with the aging of the egg, must be less than 3/16" in depth when candled. Candling is done with a light. The egg white must be clear and reasonably firm. A reasonably firm white will surround the yolk and will be relatively viscous in nature in comparison to a lower quality egg, having a thin watery albumen. In addition, the yolk must be partically free of apparent defects such as bud spots.

The USDA Standards and Grades for eggs provide the consumer with a marketing system with established buying guides to reduce waste, confusion and uncertainty will respect to quality values. Consumers who buy eggs with USDA and State quality standards and grades on the carton are assured of a high quality product.

Eggs are very nutritional. They are a good meat substitute and are delicious when combined with other ingredients to produce a high quality protein dish.

4-H'ers in Appomattox County have the oppoutunity to become egg grading experts. For the first time in a number of years 4-H'ers will have the opportunity to try out for egg judging teams. 4-H'ers will practice for a given period of time and then try out for the team which will be able to represent Appomattox County in Junior and Senior competition. The first judging practice was held LAST Wednesday in the Extension Office Meeting Room. Future practice dates are Friday, February 15, Thursday, February 21 and Thursday, February 28, 1980. Each of these practice sessions will be held from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. at the Extension Office Meeting Room. If you have a 4-H'er or know of one who would be interested in learning more about how to grade, candle and judge good quality eggs, please encourage them to participate in this educational opportunity.

Homemakers, if you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call us at 352-8244 or write us at P.O. Box 488, Appomattox, Va. 24522.

Homemakers, have a good week!

Recipe of the week

Geraldine's Waldorf Astoria Red Velvet Cake

(A Valentine Specialty)

½ cup shortening
1½ cups white sugar
2 eggs
2 oz. red food coloring
2 level tablespoons cocoa
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
2 ½ cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon soda

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time. Mix all dry ingredients except soda and add alternately with buttermilk. Add food coloring and vanilla.

Mix vinegar and soda and stir in last; do not beat. Add cake coloring before adding flour. Pour into 9 inch pans and bake 30 to 35 minutes at 350°F.

FLUFF FROSTING

1 cup milk and ¼ cup flour cook until thick and cool

1 cup sugar and ½ cup homogenized shortening and ½ cup butter (beat until fluffy with high speed mixer)

Add first mixture and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Continue beating.

This makes a perfect dessert for Valentine's Day. Many thanks to Geraldine Marshall for sharing this delicious recipe with us. We are printing this again because of many requests.
